

To make room for the Phase One footprint, a corner of the old building needs a slight modification. The main entrance doors have been moved in a few feet so the corner of the dining room can be nipped off.