

The tedious job of pouring a foundation under the old dining room where the corner has been modified.